Buying and using RFSC contract ice

There are several ways to pay for and skate on club ice. They are summarized below.

1. Purchase a contract for a particular session. Contract registrations and payments usually must be submitted to the club treasurer a week or two before a new contract period (Spring, Summer, Fall, Winter I, or Winter II) begins. If you purchase a contract session, your name will be pre-printed on the ice sign-in sheets, and all you will need to do before getting on the ice each week is to write your initials on that day's sheet.

2. Pay as you go. Skaters should sign in before they skate, check the "check" column, and leave payment in the pocket of the sign-in book. The amount due is indicated toward the top of each sign-in sheet. Cash is accepted, but checks are preferred. Payment envelopes are located in the pocket of the sign-in book.

3. Use an ice trade coupon. For every contract you purchase, you receive one ice trade coupon. These are placed in the accordion folder in the club locker room.

If you have missed one of your contract sessions, or if you know you will miss a particular upcoming session, you can trade the missed session for any other open contract session.

To use an ice trade coupon, write the required information (session, date, and time for both the cancelled session and the replacement session) on the coupon, and place it in the pocket of the sign-in book just outside the rink. You must also write your name on the sign-in sheet and check the "ice trade coupon" column.

4. Purchase a sheet of random ice coupons. There are 10 coupons on each sheet, and they can be used for any RFSC contract session during the current contract period and the next contract period. For example, random coupons purchased under the Fall contract can be used during Fall and Winter I.

To buy random coupons, just check the appropriate box on the contract registration form. There is no need to indicate the session(s) on which you anticipate using your random coupons. If you need more random coupons during the middle of a contract period, you can e-mail the Account Manager (as of September 2016, the Account Manager is Liz Kaytor, who can be reached at mlkaytor@comcast.net).

Random coupons are placed in the accordion folder in the club locker room. You can leave the coupons in the folder, or you can remove them from the folder and keep them elsewhere (in your locker or at home, for example). However, because coupons sometimes are lost if they are removed from the folder, it may be best to just leave them there.

To use a random coupon, write the required information (session, date, and time) on the coupon, and place it in the pocket of the sign-in book. You must also write your name on the sign-in sheet and check the "random coupon" column. Note: random coupons are transferrable between siblings! Just cross off the pre-printed name and write in the name of the sibling using the coupon.

5. Purchase a beginner random ice coupon. These can be purchased on an individual basis from your coach at the rink, or you may purchase a sheet of 5 coupons. Pre-purchased sheets of coupons will have the skater's name printed on them, and will be placed in the accordion folder in the club locker room.

A skater using a beginner coupon must be under the age of 10, and must be a RFSC Rising Stars member or RFSC member with no test passed. Beginner coupons are valid only during RFSC contract ice times.

To use a beginner coupon, write the required information (name, parent contact, session, date, and time) on the coupon, have it signed by both the parent/guardian and coach, and place it in the pocket of the sign-in book just outside the rink. You must also write your name on the sign-in sheet and check the "random coupon" column. If the beginner coupon was purchased at the rink, it also must be accompanied by payment of $7.50, which also should be placed in the pocked of the sign-in book.
