LIGHTER THAN AIR PASSING FAIR MORE THAN FP SKIES CAN BEAR?

by Jim Kittilsby

Two aerostatics analysts, experts in that branch of physics dealing with the equilibrium of a pigskin spheroid containing air, will engineer tonight's family fracas.

You can expect the duo to turn the evening into a far-out fling.

Tom O'Rourke, an account executive with the Seattle advertising firm of Cole and Weber, can promote the Alumni cause with both an air and land campaign. O'Rourke, an accomplished passer, is equally adept as a running back. His stat story includes 4.7 yards per carry in 1973.

Sophomore Brad Westering, who threw for 15 touchdowns in just six outings last year and watched the catch count mount to 1349 yards, will be the signal caller for the Varsity. Westering made an auspicious debut as a starter with a 282 yard aerial show against Linfield.

The Lutes, 6-4 last season, will rely on seniors Prentis Johnson and Greg Price for the ground grinding. Johnson averaged 5.7 yards per carry in 1976, while Price scrambled for 4.1. Injuries to fullbacks Erik Streng and Mark Accimus last week may open the gates to a stable of young backs.

PLU's Big Gold Machine is welded the tightest in the defensive secondary, where six of 27 lettermen toil. Senior safety Steve Irion is the principal pass pilferer.

After a 13-12 Alumni win in 1956, the graduLutes were exiled until 1973. In the last four outings, PLU has prevailed 27-7, 36-19, 23-0, and 26-9.

LUTE-A-TOOT

STEVE DOUCETTE (85), junior end and kicker from Tacoma, drilled 25 of 27 conversion attempts last year and added two field goals.

BRAD HAUGE (76), senior defensive tackle, a business administration major with Auburn roots, spends the fall separating runners from the ball.

MARK ACCIMUS (40), junior fullback from Bellevue's Interlake HS, averaged 4.3 yards per carry in a backup role last year.

HOWARD KREPS (5), junior defensive back from White Salmon, returned seven kick-offs for 101 yards in 1976, a 14.4 average.

'D'-PLETED, PARRY VERY WARY IN PLAYING "WHAT'S MY LINE?"

by Jim Kittilsby

Leave it to Central's imaginative grid guide Tom Parry to dip into the accounting texts to remedy a Wildcat numbers problem.

Suddenly enamored with the principles of depletion allowance, Parry will test PLU's PHD program with his own CPA strategy.

Central, 3-6 last year, was drained dry on the defensive front, losing the six top down linemen. To mollify the hurt, Parry is expected to scrap the eight-man front he's used the past eleven years in favor of a five-two. The season ledger will test the veracity of the claim that depletion can be checked by X and O manipulation.

The eminently successful Wildcat coach, who has shelved four Evergreen titles and a like number of NAIA district coach of the year awards, saw his charges stumble before PLU 48-6 last year. However, Central leads in the series 19-17.

Junior Jon Martin, one of 18 lettermen, will likely man the controls of the Houston Veer offense. Martin hit on 53 of 120 passes for 670 yards last year. Offensive linemen Scott Claymore and John Prigmore, along with linebacker Rick Harris, head the vet set.

The game will take on a new look for PLU's Scott Gervais. A defensive back, the Puyallup pass plucker was a Wildcat standout last year, transferring to PLU in January. Gervais, a second team Little All-Northwest pick, led NAIA District 1 with seven interceptions and 75 runback yards.

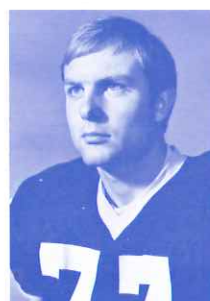

LUTE-A-TOOT

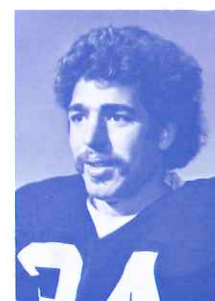

BRAD WESTERING (8), sophomore quarterback, passed for 262 yards with a record-tying 21 completions last week against UPS.

MIKE MAIURI (27), his number nearly matching his age (26), booms kickoffs and field goals in addition to his running back duties.

GREGG SHANKLE (77), senior defensive tackle, a summer highway patrolman, also flags down speeders on the gridiron.

SCOTT GERVAIS (24), junior defensive back from Puyallup, goes against his former mates tonite (see related story).

KNECHT MAY CONNECT WITH VERBAL JAB: "WE'LL HAVE A VOICE IN TITLE STORY"

by Jim Kittilsby

Some pundits may consider League Day, today's sports and sorts extravaganza for high school youth, to be Fatigue Day for visiting College of Idaho, which has wearily watched the spiraling statistical shows put on by Lewis & Clark and Linfield the past two weeks.

Undaunted by a winless streak in Northwest Conference play, which numbers 13 games since mid-1975, coach Ed Knecht may connect solidly with his verbal jab: "We may not be contenders . . . but I feel we may have a strong voice in determining the conference championship."

Lewis & Clark took him seriously, the Pioneers feeling the teeth of the Coyote attack for three quarters, before pulling away.

Knecht, in his second year at the Caldwell institution, doubles as athletic director, a position he held previously at the University of Idaho. The veteran grid strategist was at one time assistant to Dee Andros at Oregon State.

C of I, 1-7-1 last season, 0-6-1 in the NWC, is currently 0-4 overall, 0-3 in league play. The Coyotes have been tamed by Eastern Oregon 16-7, Western Montana 32-7, Lewis & Clark 42-23, and Linfield 34-14.

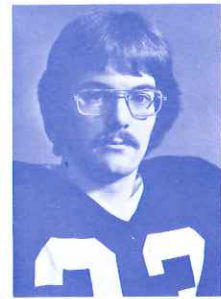

Trailing in this series 9-0-2, the Coyotes have some experienced hands on offense. Mark Palmore was the loop's seventh leading rusher last year. Split end Darrell Young was eighth in the receiving tables. Tackle Fred Mathews claimed second team all-league honors, while center Dave Jerome was an honorable mention pick.

PLU zapped the Coyotes last year 45-0.

LUTE-A-TOOT

TODD SPENCER (7), junior defensive back, was a starter for Whitworth last season, transferring to PLU in January.

JEFF CORNISH (21), sophomore running back and sprinter, anchored Hillsboro HS's state championship 440 relay squad.

MIKE CATRON (70), junior tackle, making a smooth transition from defense to offense, bulks up the right side of the line.

KEVIN STEPHENSON (83), senior end, who calls himself "the heaviest pole vaulter in the West," holds the PLU high-bar record.

PIONEERS DIDN'T BENEFIT FROM A SHOT IN THE ARM
by Jim Kittilsby

Coming off a healthy 7-2 season, with 35 lettermen back, including 28 starters, Lewis & Clark grid general practitioner Fred Wilson didn't think his program needed a shot in the arm. But it got one.

The untimely inoculation produced an unfavorable reaction and the Pioneers' long convalescence will undoubtedly amend the season summary from the anticipated "great" to the accomplished "good".

Senior quarterback Scott McCord, NAIA Division II's co-player of the year in 1976, who established both national passing and total offense standards, took his first shot in the arm, his left, non-throwing appendage, against Oregon Tech in LC's second game. The diagnosis: strained ligaments. The booster shot, in the form of a shoulder pointer at C of I, put him out of the Whitworth, Willamette, and Pacific tilts.

McCord, the Northwest Conference all-time leader in passing, total offense, and completions, connected on 242 of 392 attempts for 3146 yards and 25 touchdowns in 1976.

The affliction seems to be contagious. Backup QB Herm Tappin was disarmed in the Willamette contest, while PLU's Brad Westering sat out two games with an elbow injury.

Other standouts for LC, 4-3 overall, 3-2 in the NWC, include junior end Brad Stoffer, who holds and threatens league reception standards, and all-loop tackle Mark Pinder.

PLU, 5-2, 4-1 in the conference, has a good shot at securing a NAIA District 1 playoff berth. The Lutes, who have not yielded a touchdown pass in the past six games, will dress fifteen seniors for the final home game.

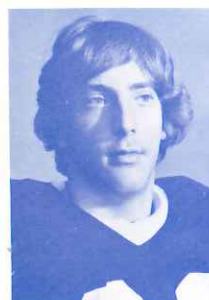

LUTE-A-TOOT

PAUL JOHNSON (86), sophomore defensive end from Terra Linda, Calif., was a munition detonator for the jayvee Bombers in 1976.

JOHN BLEY (66), freshman guard from White Pine, Michigan, solid as oak in the Lute forward wall, is a pre-law major.

JOHN SCHULTZ (61), sophomore center from Olympia's North Thurston HS, is free to roam for two more years as the Capital Punisher.

KRIS YAPP (45), sophomore defensive back from Fremont, Calif., hurdles down-trodden gridders in fall, track gates in the spring.
