IV. HOC report (Matt Fitch/Ben Monahan)

Tryout Tab - How our process works - make it available - name phone number - they can come to me 3/4 sessions - 1st day skills nobody makes or does not make it based on their skills day. Day 2-4 scrimmage (some from the outside)

Tier Groups tier from bottom up - stay for next group. 4-5 evaluators per session focusing in on the skaters -

Hockey sense, attitude - everything - I can tell you that kids who finish drills get noticed vs. kids who give up - Day one - 5 skill sets ranked 1-10 - ability days for scrimmage days then ranked 60-1 (or however they are ranked) after day 2 - evaluators will do a second ranking - top gets moved to the bottom. If a kid is moved up they don't get a ranking until the end. End of the tryout - ranked through 3 scrimmages - weight of the tryouts. Final teams will be determined - Goalies determined by skills/ skater skills. Goalies will be evaluated during skaters tryout. Skaters skills portion - goalies will be ranked in group placement - players skills. Final goalies will be placed

Question: Sometimes in the practices the goalies see 60-70-80 shots - sometimes skaters are coming 2 at a time to the goalies - during tryouts if they see two skaters coming down .. HS Goalie coaches in and out of our system going to evaluate.

Injury - (read the tryout handout)

Inside and outside of the association - same as last year - more outside then inside last year - while kid is on ice or making decisions will not be a part of it.

HOC's decision on if a kid misses

Are the evaluators aware of where the kids were at? No - they don't know until the last day.

What if your kid chokes and ends up on the wrong team?- Roster movement can be done until the end of the year - doesn't happen very often.

15U you have to be patient - planning one team - Weimer knows we may need two

Why do you tier the 12 teams?

10's fun, development

Retention - vs. winning - need to do a better job of doing it.

We built this to what it is - girls hockey is tough - D5 makes too much money on us to let us leave - we will have more discussions with this soon.

Continue to work on this.

When do tryouts start?
