THE BROS 52 NOCO BULLS 00

Buckle up cowboys, this week's slate of games were a wild ride. We started the day with an absolute stunning performance by The Bros. Completely dominating the NoCo Bulls in every way possible on their way to a 52 to 0 win. The truly crazy part is that NoCo is absolutely no slouch and they had their entire squad for the game. For the Bros this was a total team win and should be the unquestioned #1 team in this week's power rankings. Donell Wells added five total touchdowns to his season stats, while two of his passing TD's went to Davaughn Thornton. On the defensive side of the ball is where The Bros put on a magnificent display. They picked off David Knighton four times, two of which were returned for touchdowns. They only came down with one sack but pressured Knighton on almost 80% of his throws. Knighton didn't play as bad as the stats may lead you to believe as a couple interceptions were tips after his receivers failed to catch the ball. Drops continue to plague NoCo this season and are a big reason why they are 0 and 3 and not the other way around. This was a very demoralizing loss, so much so that NoCo threw in the towel with around four minutes left to play in the game. The Bulls can get back on track with a win against Menace this week. I highly doubt the offense for the Bulls will have back to back clunkers. Menace should not overlook the Bulls who still are a very explosive team. The Bros match up against another winless team in the Goats. If the Bros keep up their play from last week then I would anticipate another 50 point game for them.

COLORADO HUSKERS 25 MILE HIGH BUILT 21

The game between the Huskers and Mile High Built was definitely the game of the week as it came down to the wire. The Huskers would come out on top 25 to 21 and move their record to 2 and 1. The game got started off with a bang when on the second play of the game Julian Banks snagged a one handed pass and took it the rest of the way for a TD. Now one handed catches are becoming pretty regular all around football but this one was caught on the tip without any movement once it hit Julian's hands and stayed that way till he got into the end zone. The catch was even caught on camera and is becoming viral. Julian ended the day with 6 rec 186yards and 2 TD's which puts him in second place for yards on the season. Truly this Huskers team has arguably the best WR core as a whole. It's no wonder why Mario Lopez put up four touchdowns and didn't throw any interceptions. If the Huskers can get the ball to Autwan "Spyder" Bloom and Stephen Mamuzich's hands more to go along with Julian's and Antoine Kelly's catches I think we could see points in the 40's or 50's. This game did get a little spicy as both teams have players that won't back down from anyone. That's why, even after falling behind, Mile High Built started to make another comeback bid, only in this game they fell just shy. MHB was without new stud pass rush Evan Frie so we didn't get to see the match up against Caddy Mauga. Only one sack in this game on either side that was picked up by Gian Lasher. The Huskers just played very sound technical football to get the win. Artie, while still coming up with big plays, still has 7 interceptions on the season which leads the league. He'll need to find a way to clean that up a little bit, especially when they take on CTS this next week. That's going to be a heck of a game to see and it will start off the day at 8am. The Huskers are the better team on paper and I don't know who from the Oilers will cover all those receivers. But the Oilers are on cloud nine right now so the Huskers will need to be ready themselves and can't overlook the Oilers.

OILERS 21 DENVER GOATS 15

Following their stunning victory over CTS, the Oilers took that moment and rode it along to a 21 to 6 win against the Goats. The Oilers are playing with so much confidence right now that they could be pushing for a playoff spot. They constantly put pressure on Derek Holiday, when they weren't actually sacking him that is. They totaled six sacks on the day, four came from the newcomer Rich Pixley. He is in the same mold as Mike Timm, tall with long arms which make him a match up nightmare. The Goats had no answer and their line was leaking like a sieve all day. To be honest I'm honestly wondering if the Goats are going to inevitably sink into the B league or will they make a small run and stick in the A league. The Goats did manage to put up 15 points but the second TD came too late for them to really make a comeback.

Making matters worse was the fact the Goats started with only 8 guys and needed QB Derek Holiday to play on defense. Shockingly he came away with a pass deflection and a flag pull. After the first defensive series, a couple more players showed up so Doc didn't need to play defense the rest of the game. The Oilers controlled this game and are playing very similar ball to how the Denver Broncos played in their Super Bowl 50 season. Ball control offense but a tight defense. Jalen Kittrell for the Oilers came away with a pick six on the day along with his four pass deflections. Kittrell is a really underrated CB in this league who has good ball skills as shown against a legendary flag football QB. For the Goats they'll need their O-line to give Holiday more time against the Bros' stellar defensive front. I'm not exactly sure who'll be rushing after Donell Wells from the Goats. But if it's o-linemen having to play d-line again for the Goats then it will surely be a long day. The Oilers are riding high after their second win in a row which has them technically tied for second place. They'll need to play top notch ball once again as they face up against the Huskers. I'm not sure who'll be able to cover Antoine Kelly for the Oilers but, honestly, who really can cover him. We've been counting out the Oilers all season but if they can pull out the win against the Huskers, maybe it's time to take the Oilers seriously.

CTS 20 COLORADO MENACE 13

Coming into the day I was wondering how CTS was going to respond to their shocking loss last week to the Oilers. They started off with what is not exactly the greatest start as Jordan Williams picked off Duece Richardson and returned it back for six. That would be the only mistake from Duece for the rest of the game. He would throw for a total of 207 yards and 3 TD's. Every of those yards and scores did not come easy as the Menace defense gave up very little ground. On defense for CTS, Jason Davis had his best game of the season so far as he seemed to be in perfect coverage all game long. JD came away with one interception and 2 pass deflections. CTS's pass rush was once again a wrecking crew that forced Jesse into quick passes. Anthony Clayton came away with another sack which gives him four on the season and is tied with three others for the league lead. For Menace, Jesse Eaton had an okay game but was having trouble finding holes in the CTS defense. He was able to beat CTS deep one time when he threw a deep pass to Marcus Crowder that dropped in perfectly over the defender into Crowder's hands. Crowder was the main target in this one as he finished with 7rec 146yards and 1 td.

The defense of Menace put pressure on Duece but only could rack up three sacks on the day. It was a treat to see both team's offensive and defensive lines go against each other. The defensive schemes that CTS comes up with are team specific and so I'm sure they'll have a little something special for MHB this weekend. This could turn into a QB running game where both QBs run for over 100 yards. Menace will need to get back on track against NoCo Bulls on Sunday. I think Menace has the defensive talent to stop the Bulls offense but NoCo will be fighting to get their season back on track. Where I think the game will be won is between Menace's offense and the Bulls defense. Whoever comes out on top in that match up I think will come away with the W in the standings.

MATADORS 26 KRYPTONITE 6

The wild and crazy ride continued into the B league as the Matadors needed a win to remain unbeaten. They wound up obtaining that win by beating Kryptonite fairly easily 26 to 6. Even though Kryptonite was missing their QB and a few other key players, the Matadors did not play down to their competition. Kryptonite platooned between a few different QB's, even Derek Watson stepped in to toss the rock. That's actually when Kryptonite was able to get some things going, however still not enough to really make it a game. On defense, Chris Alexander came away with a late game interception to truly end any notion of a comeback. The Matadors are now one of two teams that are unbeaten going into week 4. They've essentially locked up a playoff spot. I really haven't seen the Matadors offense click on all cylinders yet and I'm wondering if that is because of the defenses they've played or if they holding back. Facing off against the Lightning in week 4, the Matadors are the better team on paper but in the past they've had issues trying to stop the spread game. They do have more overall speed on defense than they had before so I do believe they'll get the win, especially with Lightning's lack luster offensive display so far. Kryptonite was missing quite a few players in week 3 but you have to play with what you got. I'm assuming in week 4, Kryptonite will have close to their full team and should come away with a win against the 0 and 3 Sudden Impact.

S.W.A.T. 21 DENVER ROCKERS 19

A battle between two anticipated championship contenders did not disappoint in the second game of the week. The Rockers grabbed an early 12 to 0 lead before Swat got on the board. The game quickly became back and forth affair. The Rockers were looking to go up by two possessions but a dropped wide open pass for a TD quickly turned the tide. The following play, Swat returned an interception all the way into the red zone. Swat would get the six and then come up with a big stop on downs that ended the Rockers final drive. Swat comes away with the 21 to 19 win and puts both of these teams at 2 and 1 on the season. The switch to DaJuan Thomas at QB has seen an average of 24 points scored, up from 0 put up in week 1. Huge difference from someone not considered a true QB. Swat will take on fellow 2 and 1 Disciples, which should also be a good game in week 4. Just before that game the Rockers will take on just as veteran of a team in TNT. That is the battle of the pocket QB's so the game should come down to who can protect their pocket QB the best.

THE DISCIPLES 22 TNT 19

The game between TNT and Disciples was a good game as I had expected. This was a back and forth match all the way till the end. The defense for TNT found it hard to stop the Disciples WR Haydn Strauss. Strauss did all of his play making all while wearing a polo shirt. Who really where's a polo while playing flag football?!?! I digress. On the flip side, the Disciples had difficulty getting to Dave Maestas but they did enough to get Dave off his mark on occasion. Truly the defensive backs and linebackers were what made good plays to stop TNT from really getting extra yards. The game came down to an extra point after TNT scored to get within a point. They decided to try for the win but Haydn Strauss made a heck of a break on the pass to not only get the interception that stopped the extra point but he returned it for the extra 2 points. That stop gave the Disciples the 22 to 19 win and get their record to 2 and 1. Tough loss for TNT and their road doesn't get any easier when they'll face the Rockers this weekend. Both of these teams have extremely tough match ups in week 4 but regardless of the results, they both are in good position to make the playoffs.

DENVER CHIEFS 32 M.O.B. 00

The following two games were pretty much no contests, as both ended up being blowouts. First up was the Chiefs taking on the Mob. The Chiefs took a few play to find their stride but it truly didn't take long. Getting it done any way they wanted both on the ground and through the air. The Chiefs are beating the teams that they should and really haven't been challenged yet. Only allowing one TD through three games is still pretty good and I can see that same type of defense this coming week when they face FOE who is still working the kinks out with their own QB. That game could come down to a defensive stand as both teams have a good defense. As for Mob they have yet to score this season but their schedule does give them a nice break from the gauntlet they've had so far. They'll face up against fellow 0 and 3 Mustangs who also have yet to score a TD. In that game I'm thinking Mob will come out on top as they have had 8 players in all their games unlike the mustangs who have played back to back games with 7.

FOW 40 MUSTANGS 00

As stated previously the Mustangs started with 7 players and did end up having a guy get hurt as well, so they finished with only six guys. FOE took full advantage by mercy ruling the Mustangs at approximately the 12 min mark left in the game. The final in this one was 40 to 0. FOE basically did whatever they wanted, they even worked Hank back in at QB late in the game. On defense they ended up sending four but surprisingly Benji has elusive hips and although running for his life he did get the ball off to prevent from getting sacked very much. For FOE they'll be riding this mercy rule win high heading in to a tough match up against the Chiefs. We all know the Chiefs are the total opposite of the Mustangs. At least they've figured out the QB position, next up they'll need to find a way to give him more time to make reads. For the Mustangs they'll need to just get players to the field. At what point will the few guys that are showing up decide to give up? I know Celestino Archuleta will not and that is the main reason why I decided to make him one of the spotlight players this week. He plays hard even though he gets his butt beat week in and week out. Can he pull some guys together to get that elusive first win and maybe pick morale back up? I truly hope so cause we hate seeing teams forfeit.

DENVER LIGHTNING 07 SUDDEN IMPACT 00

The last game of the day put two winless teams against each other. Those two teams were Sudden Impact and Lightning both of who have only scored one touchdown in each of their first two games. That same offensive output came to play as these teams did not score any points in regulation. After Sudden Impact was able to stop Lightning in the red zone they decided to throw a Hail Mary for a possible miracle TD. They did have 24 seconds, so to me, I would have tried to throw an out route to get a little closer than the 20 or 30 yard line they were at. But nonetheless they decided on the long toss but it was against 6'5 or taller Jalen Simpson who picked it off to end regulation. Sudden Impact won the coin toss and elected to play defense first which should be everyone's choice so you know exactly what you need. Well in this case Lightning was able to punch it in and even pick up the extra point to score the first points of the game. On the second play from Sudden Impact, one of Lightning's defensive linemen deflected the ball and then intercepted it to finally end the game. Lightning will need more offense than that when they face Matadors in week 4. For Sudden Impact they'll be facing Kryptonite who I've heard will have Jovan Mays back this week at QB. I can see that being very bad for Sudden Impact who could see their record go to 0 and 4.

CODE OF CONDUCT/FINE/PENALTIES REMINDER

REMINDER: It is on the team captain's to make sure their players know the rules and follow them. There is absolutely NO FIGHTING. Doing so will result in HEAVY fines and suspensions. The rules are there for a reason. If fights happen then we may lose the rights to play on the amazing fields we have. Also, after each game the sidelines will be checked to make sure the trash has been cleaned up. Fines will be implemented to teams that leave their sidelines trashed. So please clean up after yourselves and your fans. Lets have good sportsmanship and have a great season.

The PF3 Code of Conduct/Suspensions/Fines/Penalties document can be found on our website www.premierflagfootball.com. Click on the Home tab, then select Documents.
