SOUTH ALL-STARS

SOUTH COACHES

DANNY CLARY (ITHACA)

Danny Clary grew up on a dairy farm just eight miles from Ithaca. He began his own construction business in 2000 and sees the parallels between building a house and coaching a high school baseball team. "I got involved in coaching youth baseball and basketball when our kids were in kindergarten, and I was hooked immediately. Watching how much kids can improve from the beginning of a season until the end of a season is what drives me. It's just like building a house and having that feeling of seeing a project from the start until the end. He had the full blessing of his childhood sweetheart, Kami, whom he married in 1996. The couple of have four children.

He added, "I got involved in coaching youth baseball and basketball when our kids were in kindergarten, and I was hooked immediately. Watching how much kids can improve from the beginning of a season until the end of a season is what drives me. It's just like building a house and having that feeling of seeing a project from the start until the end. I have coached 43 different seasons of youth sports (baseball, basketball)."

He took the program over in 2016 and promptly won a State Championship. His teams have won four conference titles, four regionals, and three Sectionals, including this season where Ithaca was preparing to win another State Championship. His career record is 121-35 going into the State Tournament.

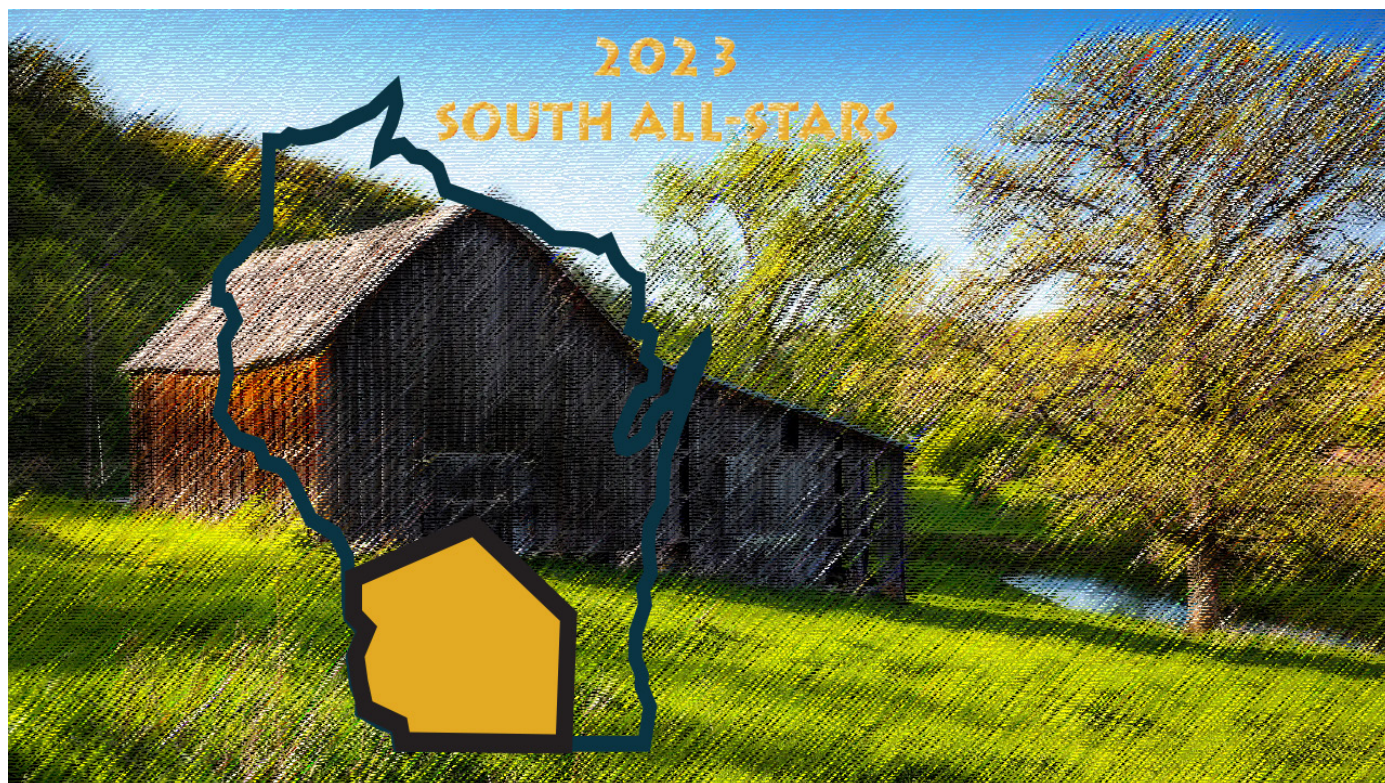

RODNEY CURTIS (LODI) Information not yet received.

JACOB SOULE (OREGON)

Coach Soule is the second person to participate in the All-Star Classic in the past two years: his son Tyler played in the Classic last year. Soule, a graduate of Madison East High School and UW-Platteville, played at both places collegiately.

He has been the head coach at Oregon High School for nine years and has a career record of 85-79. He led his teams to Conference Championships in 2015 and 2017.
